Marauders,

Students departing for spring break were advised to take all of their valuable items and as many of their personal items as possible. Any items left in personal rooms will remain under room lock until the appropriate time for retrieval can be determined.

The schedule for retrieving remaining personal items will follow the Governor’s announcement of the lift on the number allowed to gather in one location at any one time. The order of non-congregation is for the safety of all students. It is also for the safety of staff members who are required to be present when each student retrieves his or her belongings. The lifting of the mandate announcement is not anticipated until after the COVID-19 peak is reached.

We do apologize for the inconvenience. Please continue to monitor your emails and the University website for updates.
