Searching EBSCO Databases

EBSCOhost provides a number of research databases that use the EBSCO interface. This guide will show some features common to all these databases.

Searching

To perform a search, enter the keywords or phrases that describe your topic in the Find box and click Search. Searches can be combined using (AND, OR, or NOT). The AND operator combines search terms so that each search result contains all the terms, the OR operator combines search terms so that each search result contains at least one of the terms, and the NOT operator excludes search terms so that each result will contain the first term but not the term that follows it, for example basketball NOT college.

Searching by Subjects/Subject terms, People, and Places

To perform a subject search, click on the Subject/Subject terms button along the top toolbar. Enter a term in the Browse for box, and click Browse. From the list of terms, check the box in front of your subject and click Add to place the term in the Find box and then click Search. In some databases the people and places sub-tabs appear when the Subject Terms list is viewed.

To perform a search for people or places, click on the appropriate sub-tab ![Subjects Places People] and enter your search term in the Browse box. After entering your term, click Browse, and then check the box in front of the name or place. Click Add to place the term in the Find box, and then click Search. When searching for a person, enter last name, first name (for example: Robeson, Paul).

Searching by Publication

To perform a publication search, click on the publications tab along the top toolbar. You can browse a list of publications alphabetically, or enter the publication title in the Browse Publications box. From the browse list, check the box in front of the desired publication and click Add to place the publication title in the Find box, and then click Search.

Results List

The results list displays 30 citations per page returned in relevancy rank order. Items are displayed in brief citation format with links to add item to your folder, and PDF full text and/or HTML full text when available. A Find It link is also included with each citation, and clicking here will take you to the OLinks screen that will show: A link to electronic full text (if available); print holdings in the Central State Library catalog (if we subscribe to the journal); and a link to view holdings statewide.
